

What To Do In Los Angeles This September

Mid-Autumn Festival

Website/ 8430 Sunset Blvd 90069

On Sept. 29, the Mid-Autumn Festival will take place at the Pendry West Hollywood's rooftop and will feature the culinary talents of restaurants from across the city. In addition to DJs and dragon dancers, the evening will include food from Badmaash, Chinois, Cut, The Joint Seafood, Merois, The Original Thai Dishes, Ospero, Pizzeria Mozza, and Spago. Admission, tables and after party tickets are now available.

---

Link: <https://mlangeleno.com/what-to-do-in-los-angeles>

UVM: 19,245

15 Destination-Worthy Hotel Restaurants in Los Angeles

The best way to pick a place to stay in LA

by Eater Staff | Updated Sep 8, 2023, 11:11am PDT | 3 comments / new

Merois

Chef Wolfgang Puck is at it again, this time using Merois as a playpen for his broad culinary perspective. Everything here has a California sensibility, just spread across spicy chicken dumplings, crab fried rice, Peking duck, and more. Grab a table just for the views, if anything.

---

Link: <https://la.eater.com/maps/best-hotel-restaurants-los-angeles>

UVM: 1,131,513

4 Restaurants to Try This Weekend in Los Angeles

Your handy guide on where to eat from the editors at Eater LA

For epic views and modern Asian cooking: Merois

Some weekends call for proper pampering and the place to be is Merois at the Pendry hotel in West Hollywood. Whether seated outdoors near the pool or in the sumptuously appointed dining room, there's no bad seat in the house. Wolfgang Puck's winding menu has something for everyone and dessert is definitely in order. Start with a few skewers grilled over binchotan, the Spanish octopus and beef skewers are both appealing for a surf and turf experience. Nearly every table orders the sizzling whole fish with a pineapple glaze or the tremendous Shanghai lobster with crispy spinach and rice. To finish, the perfectly purple ube Basque cheesecake is velvety smooth, while the halo-halo refreshes as only it can. 8430 Sunset Blvd, West Hollywood, CA 90069. — Cathy Chaplin, senior reporter/editor

---

Link: <https://la.eater.com/23786426/la-los-angeles-restaurant-recommendations-eater-editors-2023-3>

UVM: 1,131,513

Los Angeles Times

51 rooftop restaurants and bars in L.A. to soak in the best city views

Merois

On the 11th floor of the Pendry Hotel is a Californian Art Deco haven. Merois is Wolfgang Puck's fourth restaurant in West Hollywood and sits on the uppermost floor of the Pendry Hotel. From the colorful, seashell-shaped booths to the bird of paradise plants lining the walls, Merois' design is immediately captivating. There are two dining areas: One faces the hotel pool by the bar and bleeds around the corner into the indoor dining area. From here, you can catch a glimpse of the Hollywood Hills in between high-rise buildings. In the indoor dining room, the closer to the windows you are, the better views you have looking southeast to downtown L.A. and southwest to Baldwin Hills. It does get quite dark in the enclosed dining room once the sun goes down, but the booths make for an intimate retreat as you gaze out through the south-facing windows. Puck's menu marries pan-Asian influences with California seasonality, including a raw bar with crispy rice and tuna tartare and a selection of dim sum with a standout fried lobster spring roll.

READ LESS ^

---

Link: <https://www.latimes.com/food/list/best-rooftop-restaurants-and-bars-in-los-angeles#>

UVM: 30,824,242

The best rooftop restaurants in L.A.

Because rooftop bars aren't the only way to enjoy breathtaking views.

1. Merois at the Pendry

Restaurants

Pan-Asian

West Hollywood

$$$$

Though other WeHo hotel restaurants might possess a similar winning combination of ritzy, ultra-chic interior design and breathtaking urban vistas (plus the glitzy patrons to match), only Wolfgang Puck's newest fine-dining endeavor strives to do more than just coast on its looks. Pairing aesthetics with actual substance, Merois demonstrates that later works in a longtime celebrity chef's oeuvre, even one as expansive and commercialized as Puck's, can still delight and outright impress seasoned diners. French Californian dishes with plenty of Asian culinary influences, all atop the Pendry's rooftop? Sounds like a date to us.

---

Link: <https://www.timeout.com/los-angeles/restaurants/best-rooftop-restaurants-in-los-angeles>

UVM: 21,463,021